

21 Cuban Prisoners Return; Some Refuse

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—International prisoner negotiator James Donovan flew into Florida Monday with 21 pale, skinny Americans liberated from Cuban jails.

He said six others had declined to return to the United States. Three of these, Donovan said, are native-born Americans who chose to fly to South America. The other three are Cuban-Americans who chose to stay in Cuba with their families.

Donovan would neither identify the Americans nor state their reasons for deciding against a return to their homeland. They were to be flown from Cuba, presumably aboard a Havana-Mexico City flight.

Several other Cubans, naturalized Americans, remain in Fidel Castro's prisons. But Donovan said, "I have arranged for review of these various other cases. I was promised that in the very near future they will be disposed of on an individual basis and will be released."

A thousand more Cubans are expected to come to the United States in the next few days aboard the SS American Surveyor which is unloading ransom supplies in Havana.

Donovan negotiated the swap of American U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel, then turned his attention to Cuba. He has managed to free some 5,000 persons from the Communist island.

He obtained the freedom of two American women last month and five skin divers and a U.S. missionary April 9.

Last December he obtained the release of the 1,100 Bay of Pigs invaders on the promised payment of $33 million in baby food, drugs, and medical supplies.

No More Missions
The New York attorney said he plans no more missions of liberation.

He said the ransom goods shipments would be completed within a month and that he saw no reason for further trips.

One of the 21 arrivals Monday was taken to a hospital for mental treatment. The chartered Pan American plane, which brought the men to Homestead Air Force Base, stopped far down the landing strip, and the man, Richard Allen Pecoraro, 30, of Staten Island, N.Y., was placed in an ambulance. The plane then taxied to the platform where newsmen waited.

Videl Guillermo Morales, a fellow prisoner, said Pecoraro had not been himself for some time and had been treated at the Isle of Pines prison and in a mental hospital.

Morales displayed black plastic rings with white numbers, 27560, his prison number. He said prisoners had been warned to wear the rings so bodies could be identified because the prison would be blown up in case of an anti-Castro invasion or an insurrection.

"Three months ago they took out the explosives—7,500 pounds of TNT," Morales said. "They had put it in holes drilled in the basement of the prison."

Donovan, who appeared at the base service club with about a dozen prisoners, was approached by a woman carrying a baby. With tears streaming down her face, the woman identified herself as the wife of Rafael del Pino of Miami, a native Cuban but a naturalized American citizen.

Mrs. Del Pino sobbed: "What happened? What happened? He is an American. Will he be there 30 years?"

Donovan's reply could not be heard, but he shook his head.

U.S. Moves Some 7th Fleet Units As Precaution In New Laos Crisis

Civil War Feared In New Incidents

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The pro-Communist Pathet Lao said Monday that rightist troops of Gen. Phoumi Nosavan had joined neutralists on the strategic Plain des Jarres, scene of an uneasy truce.

The neutralist field commander, Gen. Kong Le, and rightist military sources denied the charge made in a Pathet Lao broadcast.

U.S. and other Western leaders wanting to keep Laos neutral have expressed fears the fighting on the Plain des Jarres, 110 miles north of here, would erupt into a civil war between the Pathet Lao and the rightists.

There was speculation in neighboring Thailand that the United States might build up military strength there because of the Lao-tian crisis.

Precautionary Move

In Washington, high U.S. authorities said there is a possibility U.S. troops might return to Thailand. They spoke of a serious situation in Laos as President Kennedy met with the National Security Council to discuss Laos.

U.S. defense authorities said some additional units of the U.S. 7th Fleet would be sent into the Gulf of Siam area, where some American warships already are operating. This was described as a purely precautionary move.

The U.S. ambassador to Thailand, Kenneth Young, made a hurried trip back to Bangkok, the Thai capital, after conferences in Washington.

About 4,000 troops of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization are due for maneuvers in Thailand in mid-June but the chief of staff of the Thai supreme command, Air Marshal Dawee Chulassab, reported U.S. forces are due in Thailand before then.

In Vientiane, neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma issued a communique saying the Pathet Lao had demanded the withdrawal of right-wing Meo guerrillas living in the mountains near the Plain des Jarres.

One Of Proposals

The communique said the demand was one of the proposals put forth by Pathet Lao leader Prince Souphannouvong, a deputy premier and Souvanna's half-brother, at a truce meeting Sunday.

The Meo guerrillas are mountain tribesmen who were driven from their homes by the Pathet Lao. The Meo fought fiercely against the Pathet Lao in the Lao-tian civil war that ended last year.

It could not be determined whether the rightists mentioned in the Pathet Lao broadcasts were the Meo or regular forces of the right-wing faction headed in the government by Phoumi Nosavan, a deputy premier.

The Pathet Lao broadcast asserted the mingling of rightist forces in the ranks of the neutralists of Kong Le is the main reason for the trouble on the Plain des Jarres.

Red China and Communist North Viet Nam, both northern neighbors of Laos, have charged that agents of U.S. imperialism were to blame for the resumption of fighting in the Plain des Jarres, needed by the Pathet Lao to solidify domination of northern Laos.

Lightner and Meinhardt said, "We have taken this action under the National Fire Prevention Code, which was recently adopted

Seen As Possible 'Show Of Force'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some "purely precautionary" moves by U. S. 7th Fleet units toward the Gulf of Siam area were disclosed by defense authorities Monday as President Kennedy again reviewed the perilous Laotian situation.

Informants described the proposed movements as less than a show of force and stressed that the warships have not been ordered into the Gulf of Siam. Rather, they described it as preparedness should the military subsequently get Washington orders to undertake a mission.

For the time being U. S. emphasis still was on diplomatic efforts to prevent Laos from falling to the Communists.

It was understood that at Monday's White House session the President and the National Security Council studied latest reports from Laos but made no decision on U.S. military intervention or display of force.

Hurried Meeting

Adm. Harry D. Felt, commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific, has made a hurried trip to Thailand for what was described as discussions with Southeast Asia Treaty Organization officials at SEATO headquarters in Bangkok.

In Washington high administration officials described as speculative reports that the 7th Fleet would make a big display in the Gulf of Siam.

They did not rule out the possibility that U.S. troops might be sent to Thailand, as they were last year when the Reds threatened neighboring Laos, but they did not predict this would happen.

On the diplomatic side, Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman arrived in Paris for further efforts to prop up last year's 14-nation Geneva agreement for a neutral, independent Laos, free of outside interference. Whether Harriman might go on to Moscow has not been decided, it was stated.

No New Fighting

Press officer Lincoln White said the State Department has received no reports of further fighting within the past 24 hours between the Communist Pathet Lao forces and Gen. Kong Le's neutralist troops in the strategic Plain des Jarres area in central Laos.

High U.S. sources said the three-nation International Control Commission, supposed to supervise the Geneva agreement, probably will get some representatives into the Plain des Jarres trouble area shortly.

Some of the difficulties now being faced in Laos, in the opinion of U.S. strategists, may stem from the Moscow-Peking rift.

GOP House Members Halt Action On Tax Proposals

HARRISBURG (AP)—A showdown in the House on Gov. Scranton's $139 billion tax program was postponed Monday for at least a week.

"There will be no vote this week on taxes," majority whip Moron H. Fetterolf Jr., R-Montgomery, told newsmen after a two-and-one-half hour caucus of the Republican House members.

"We had an open discussion (of the tax problem)," Fetterolf said, "and came to no conclusions."

Republicans will meet again

Tuesday at noon to make further exploration of the situation, he added. At that time, experts from the Revenue Department were to appear to answer questions about potential revenues from various tax proposals.

There were 104 Republicans present Monday of the 109 GOP House members. Fetterolf said he expected 108 to be present Tuesday, with only Rep. Laurence V. Gibb, R-Allegheny, who is ill, absent.

Scranton has proposed the revenue be raised by expanding the 4 per cent sales tax to include clothing and raising the rate to 4½ per cent and by boosting the six-cents-a-pack cigarette tax by a penny.

Alternatives discussed, Fetterolf said, included raising the rate on inheritance taxes, levying a tax on soft drinks, seeking new sources through expanding the sales tax or raising the rate to five per cent.

A major alternative aired was a bill to make the 4 per cent sales tax—which is selective levy—a general tax, with exemptions. Although the same items would be exempt as at present, there is some view that a general tax with exemptions is easier to enforce than a selective tax.

Rep. Robert S. Ogilvie, R-Dauphin, who sponsored a bill last week to make the sales tax general, claims improved collections would produce $66 million additional revenue annually.

However, Fetterolf said there was no crystallization of opinion for or against the governor's program or any of the possible alternatives.

"I would say there were no conclusions on any particular tax," he said.

No Vote Count

There also was no effort to count votes for or against the governor's program, the majority whip added, although he coaxed some members to express opposition with the caucus.

In other legislative developments:

Appropriations—The House approved $17.7 million in deficiency appropriations to help pay costs incurred during the 1962-63 fiscal year for occupation diseases, school subsidies and public assistance.

The legislation authorizing the expenditures was immediately sent to the Senate where it was given preliminary clearance. Final action sending the measures to the governor is expected Wednesday.

Nominations—The Senate Executive Nominations Committee sent to the floor a batch of controversial appointments by Gov. Scranton. Sen. Elmer Hawbaker, R-Franklin, chairman of the committee, said the nominations would be called to a vote Tuesday regardless of Democratic sentiments.

The nominations included key appointments to the State Securities Commission and the State Harness Racing Commission. The nominations—which would require at least six Democratic votes for the required two-thirds senate confirmation—have been pending for several months.

Sen. Charles R. Weiner, minority floor leader, contended Republicans "put a gun at our heads" in demanding a vote on the nominations.

Scranton Tax Program—In discussion on the floor of the governor's revenue plan Democrats said they are solidly opposed.

Rep. Anthony J. Petrosky, minority floor leader, said the Democratic caucus "to a man" opposed the administration program.

He said his party would seek amendments that would exempt clothing; exempt clothing for children up to 18 (if the first exemption amendment fails), and keep the rate at 4 per cent.

Rep. Albert W. Johnson, majority floor leader, termed Petrosky's statements "so much hogwash."

Liquor Price Hike Seen Unwise By Board Head

HARRISBURG (AP)—Pennsylvania's liquor store prices are about as high as they can go without jeopardizing the profits turned over to the state treasury, the chairman of the state Liquor Control Board said Monday.

Chairman A. D. Cohn made the observation at a hearing of his board's 1963-64 budget before the joint House-Senate appropriations committee.

He said Pennsylvania's profit markup of 58 per cent on wine and 48 per cent on liquor is topped only by the state of Washington and perhaps Utah. And that's exclusive of state taxes totaling 14 per cent.

Cohn said the state's liquor monopoly stores will return $44 million to the state treasury next year, about $2 million less than in the current year.

Profit Declining

Rep. Jack Seltzer, R-Lebanon, asked Cohn to explain why Pennsylvania's overall percentage of profit is declining, even though the dollar amount is increasing.

"Many outstanding companies find themselves in the same situation because of rising costs," Cohn said, adding:

"But profit is not our primary concern. We must give service and that costs a reasonable amount of money."

"Also you must understand that this ($44 million profit) is a forecast, and a conservative one at that. Our purpose is to see that you (the legislature) get every cent the board earns."

Asked whether the board might consider a price increase, Cohn said:

"The markup is already high and it would serve the best interests of the commonwealth to maintain the present prices which produce such a large income for the general fund. It would be wise to think twice before jeopardizing that amount."

In addition, Cohn said, price increase would encourage more bootlegging and the illegal transportation of liquor from neighboring states where prices might be lower.

Diminishing Returns

Sen. George N. Wade, R-Cumberland, told the committee he felt a price increase "would create diminishing returns."

Rep. Kenneth B. Lee, R-Sullivan, told Cohn he had received complaints from several board employees to the effect that "in that last 1½ years more political consideration than ever before has been given to hiring."

Cohn, a Democrat, was slightly nettled by the remark, replying: "Legislators call me daily for many things and don't get to first base."

"I love the Democratic party dearly, with all due respect to those (Republicans) present, and I respect the Republican party, but my duty is to the oath I took and I follow it come hell or high water."

Cohn later said he felt the financial compromise in lieu of suspensions permitted under the law to licensees who commit violations "is not stiff enough."

He said legislation will be introduced next week to permit the board to demand violators close after the first or second violations.

Present law permits retail licensees to pay $10 daily for each day of suspension ordered by the board. Distributors pay $20 and importing distributors $30 daily.

Glenn Asks Clearing House For National Data On Space

NEW YORK (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. urged Monday that this nation, as it reaches for the moon, use its discoveries in space to spur the American people to new resourcefulness.

He proposed a national clearing house for space data.

"We need to apply our creativity, inventiveness and resourcefulness, not just to locating information, but also to making use of it," he said.

"A good many of us today are content to be fat, dumb and happy. With a polysaturated diet of the coming 35-hour week, the pay-later vacation, and fringe benefits, many live in a chromium-plated world where the major enemy we face is crab grass."

Glenn, a Marine lieutenant colonel and first American to orbit the earth, spoke at the annual luncheon of The Associated Press, the highlight of the opening day of New York's annual Newspaper week.

The AP editors and publishers already had received an annual report from its board of directors, in which Glenn's flight was rated one of the major news stories of 1962.

The directors lauded "the new aggressive leadership of the organization" in AP's coverage of this and other major stories around the world.

Nearly 1,300 newspaper executives heard Glenn, flanked by his wife, Anna, declared "the average American does not want to live on the dole, he is called featherbedding, unwarranted subsidy, or premature retirement. Rather than a domestic goal of loafing and indolence, I feel certain most Americans would prefer to remain active and apply themselves."

"We have developed an information gap between the discoverers or the researchers and those who would normally make use of such information."

"I propose that we lose no time in establishing a national information center. Control of such an institution could be by government, private interests or a combination of appropriate interests."

"At the present time, we spend billions of dollars to obtain new information, but we spend comparatively little to always make prudent and optimum use of it. We need a 'working system' for information, not just a 'filing system.'"

Use Of Data

"Providing access to such a center for friendly foreign elements could not only cement relations with corresponding groups, but could provide a focal point for the required two-thirds senate confirmation—have been pending for several months."

Sen. Charles R. Weiner, minority floor leader, contended Republicans "put a gun at our heads" in demanding a vote on the nominations.

Scranton Tax Program—In discussion on the floor of the governor's revenue plan Democrats said they are solidly opposed.

Rep. Anthony J. Petrosky, minority floor leader, said the Democratic caucus "to a man" opposed the administration program.

PUC Objects To E-L Plan To Drop Trains

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Public Utility Commission objected Monday to an Erie-Lackawanna Railroad proposal to eliminate on May 8 five interstate trains serving Scranton and other state points.

The PUC protest was filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The affected trains are: No. 41—Denville, N.J., and Scranton, with stops at East Stroudsburg, Cresco, Pocono Summit, Tobyhanna, Gouldsboro and Moscow; No. 43—Scranton to Elmira, N.Y., with a stop at New Milford.

No. 25—Port Jervis to Binghamton, N.Y., with stops at Shohola, No. 26—Binghamton to Hoboken, N.J., with a stop at Susquehanna; No. 40—Elmira to Hoboken, with stops at Hallstead, New Milford, Clarks Summit, Scranton, Moscow, Gouldsboro, Tobyhanna, Pocono Summit, Cresco and East Stroudsburg.

The railroad said other trains will continue to serve those places adding that there is "no alternative" to the curtailed service "in the interest of maintaining an economically sound railroad system."

Trade Census Scheduled For County

IN A FEW months from now, the Department of Commerce will start canvassing retailers, manufacturers and other business concerns in Monroe County to gather statistics for the 1963 Census of Business.

It will be the first general trade census on a national basis since 1958.

Every establishment will receive a questionnaire calling for detailed figures as to its operations during the year. The questions will cover such items as volume of sales, categories of merchandise sold, number of employees, hours worked, payroll and the like.

In addition to the retail and manufacturing lines, the Government will seek data from the service businesses, wholesalers and the mineral and transportation industries.

The results, when assembled, will present a comprehensive picture of business activity in Monroe County.

For merchants, advertisers, business public officials and others concerned with economic planning and progress, they will answer the all-important questions of "how much and how many."

Service Industries

The local figures will show, according to projections made of recent trends, that the greatest expansion since the 1958 census has been in the service industries.

They have grown some 21.9 percent to an estimated $27,323,000 a year at the present time. In 1958 they amounted to $22,414,000, and, in 1954, to $18,382,000.

The retail trades in Monroe County have also climbed into new ground since the previous business census was taken. Their receipts are expected to reach the $60,769,000 area this year, based on the rate at which they have been rising.

At the time of the last census they amounted to $47,915,000. In 1954 they totaled $40,470,000.

The Commerce Department hopes to have a large part of the data compiled and published during 1964, which would be faster than usual. The use of automatic data-processing machines will make it possible.

Business firms may be assured that their returns will be held confidential, states the department. They will not be subject to perusal by any other government agency or by the public for any purpose.

PR Group To Publicize Poconos Land

GOLD KEY Estates, Inc., developers of Gold Key Lake and a surrounding tract of 1,500 acres situated high in the Poconos yesterday appointed Peter Rothholz Associates, Inc., of New York, as public relations counsel.

One of the largest natural lakes in the Poconos, Gold Key is located near Milford, Pennsylvania, within easy reach of the Metropolitan New York and Philadelphia areas. Opened in the Spring of 1962, the area offers all outdoor sports plus the well-known attractions of the Poconos. Homesites at Gold Key Lake start at $990 for a 100' x 150' foot lot.

With the appointment of Peter Rothholz Associates, Inc., specialists in the resort and travel field, we hope to acquaint the public with the advantages of owning a vacation or retirement hideaway within easy driving range of the metropolitan area," said Richard B. Walters, of Stroudsburg, president of the corporation.

Educators Parley At Buck Hill

MORE than 300 Pennsylvania school administrators will attend the 6th annual spring conference of the Pennsylvania Association of Chief School Administrators scheduled for April 28-30 at Buck Hill Falls.

Theme for the conference is "New Designs for Educational Administration," according to Dr. Thomas E. Carson, Supervising Principal of North Allegheny Schools and conference chairman.

Dr. Carson stated that the program committee decided to invite top flight educational spokesmen so that Pennsylvania administrators can become more directly acquainted with new designs for school administration. "We will take a close look at these new ideas and attempt to determine what value they have and how they might be implemented to improve our present practices," Carson said.

"Then we will determine the speed and rapidly by which we can put them into practice. We are already among the first states to adopt the American Association of School Administrators policy requiring five years of training or a Master's degree for membership in AASA and the Pennsylvania Association of Chief School Administrators."

Principal speakers include Dr. Benjamin L. DuVal, pastor of Elm Park Methodist Church in Scranton; Dr. Willard J. Jacobson, Professor of Natural Sciences at Teachers College, Columbia; Dr. D. Richard Wynn, Professor of Education at the University of Pittsburgh, and Dr. Archibald B. Shaw, Associate Secretary of the American Association of School Administrators and Editor of "Overview" magazine.

Dr. DuVal will open the conference Sunday evening on the subject, "The Plus in Education." Dr. DuVal, who heads one of the largest Methodist churches in Northeastern United States, has treated education as a major emphasis in his work. He has served as Dean of a number of Institutes and Schools of Religion.

Dr. Jacobson will speak on the new science curricula at the Monday morning session. He is a former Fulbright Senior Lecturer at London University and is Associate Director of the Science Manpower Project. He also has written several textbooks on science.

Dr. Wynn will pose the question, "What Do We Know About Administrative Organization?" A member of the PSA, Dr. Wynn has authored several books and articles on school organization and staffing. He also will speak Monday morning.

Banquet speaker Monday is Dr. Shaw, who had 30 years experience as an educator before taking over as editor of "Overview," a magazine for school administrators.

THE National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans to launch 18 unmanned moon craft called Rangers.

State Police Can Expect Anything

IF YOU'RE a state trooper, you learn to expect anything. Which is why State Police of the Stroudsburg barracks weren't surprised — just concerned — when they were told Sunday that a donkey was racing cars along Route 611.

In fact, they had met the donkey earlier. About 7 p.m., police and volunteers rounded up the small Mexican animal in the Stroud Shopping Center.

It was returned to its owner, Justin Howe, who lives near the shopping center, and placed back in its barbed wire corral. But, a couple of hours later, it was loose again.

Howe declined to comment, except to say that he'd keep the animal tied to a stake outside of his home. He said apparently the barbed wire fence just wasn't strung tight enough.

Businessmen Of Eastburg Back Jazz

EAST Stroudsburg Businessmen's Association recently voted to back and support the proposed jazz festival scheduled in the area during the last week in June.

In other business, Herman A. Smeltz, chairman of the sign committee, reported that efforts are being made to procure locations in which to place new welcome and directional signs to travelers in the area.

A report from the Borough Council Liaison Committee showed that the borough council favored the association's Anti-Litter Campaign in the downtown section of the borough. Council approved the purchase of 12 litter baskets to attach to parking meters around the business section.

The association's next meeting is scheduled for Thursday, April 25, at Altier's on Route 203. A spokesman for the organization said this change in the regular meeting date is for April only.

No Injuries In Two-Car Accident

NO ONE was injured in a two-car accident in Bartonville, just east of the intersection of Routes 12 and 611, at 7:45 p.m. Sunday.

State Police here said a car driven by Andrew Mularek, 48, Cresco RD 1, struck the rear of a vehicle operated by William J. McDonald, Jr., 22, New Philadelphia, as McDonald stopped to make a left turn and Mularek attempted to pass on the right side.

Both vehicles were traveling north on Route 611.

New Wayne Armory In Talking Stage

WAYNE County commissioners and Gen. Thomas R. White Jr., state adjutant general, recently discussed the construction of a new armory in Honesdale. However, to date nothing concrete has been established.

The commissioners proposed providing a tract of land for construction on the new armory. In return they would accept the present property and utilize the building for county recreational facilities and office space.

Gen. White reportedly listened to the offer and told the commissioners he would explore it further.

Immediate action on the project is not expected as the budget for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1964, has been submitted to legislature and it is doubted it will be amended to include this construction project.

The adjutant general reportedly has a long list of similar requests and the Honesdale item would have to take its place according to priority among the other requests.

Three Local Men Attend War I Meet

THREE officers of Pocono Memorial Barracks 2230 Saturday attended a statewide meeting of Veterans of World War I at Harrisburg.

Forrest L. Graves, commander; Robert McCann, adjutant, and Samuel Gearhart, quartermaster, were the local delegates.

The discussion included the Deaton pension bill, a membership drive to be launched between now and June 14, resolutions to be presented and candidates for office at the state convention to be held in Erie in July.

It was announced that as of April 9, there are 16 new barracks in the state and a total membership of 10,583 persons.

Firemen In County Busy Again

STROUDSBURG Fire Department was called out twice yesterday. The first alarm required no assistance from firemen, but the second alarm could have been costly.

The second alarm was sounded at 12:35 p.m. It was a grass fire in the rear of 92 N. Third St. Fire Chief Nelson Lightner said, "Winds caused the blaze to spread up the bank towards N. Fifth St. and had they gone further three homes on N. Fifth St. could have burned. A result of the fire was that a garage in the area was partially burned."

Cab On Fire
The first alarm was sounded at 7 a.m. when a cab owned by Pocono Cab Co., Stroudsburg, burned. Lightner reported that the fire was out upon arrival of firemen and no assistance was required.

In Barrett
Barrett Township firemen extinguished a blaze which burned over two acres on property of the Buck Hill Falls Co. yesterday afternoon.

Chief David Blitz said the blaze was deliberately set. It was between the Buck Hill Falls dump and Mo-no-mo-neck Inn, about a mile north of Mountainhome.

Firemen were at the scene from 4:45 to 6 p.m. Coolbaugh Township Fire Co. answered two alarms yesterday, both were wood fires and both were deliberately set.

The first alarm was sounded at 10 a.m. and was on the Echo Lake Road. Firemen fought the blaze until noon when they extinguished it. The blaze consumed about two acres.

The second alarm was sounded at 3:15 p.m. and was on the right-of-way of PP & L power lines. Calls went out to three other companies for water. Responding to the calls were Mount Pocono, Tobyhanna Army Depot and Gouldsboro.

The fires burned five acres. Fire companies in the area reported no fires in their section were Shawnee, Saylorsburg, Delaware Water Gap, Stroud Township, West End and Pocono Lake.

Tobyhanna Unit Protests E-L Proposal

TOBYHANNA — Members of Tobyhanna Community Council voted Monday night to protest to the Interstate Commerce Commission the proposal of the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad to drop Trains No. 40 and 41.

It was pointed out that the action would drastically curtail mail service to the area unless a substitute is found.

The council also said the move would result in no daylight train stops in Tobyhanna causing inconvenience to passengers, including boys and girls attending local summer camps and tourists seeking to reach area resorts.

Pledges Support
The council pledged its support to the Coolbaugh Township Volunteer Fire Co. after hearing John Barleib, a member of the company, tell the group that the department needs a new ambulance and volunteer drivers.

The council also voted to ask township supervisors to erect a stop sign on the west side of Lakeside Dr. at the underpass where the road intersects with Mill St.

Piper Aircraft Sales Are Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Piper Aircraft company has reported increases in sales and earnings for the six months ending March 31, attributable in large part to better sales of its twin-engine piper Aztec B model.

The Lock Haven, Pa., firm said Saturday it earned $993,165, equal to 83 cents a share, on sale of $17,045,537. For the same period a year ago the figures were $647,315, earnings a share of 60 cents and sales of $16,178,506.

East Stroudsburg High's Band Concert On Saturday

THE EAST Stroudsburg Area Joint High School band will present a concert Saturday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The program, which will be directed by Clement Weidmeyer, director of instrumental music, will open with "Pieces of Eight Concert March," "Egmont Overture," "Sleepers Awake Choral" and "Second Suite for Military Band in F Major."

The band will then present "Romanza" with Peter Maaser as French horn soloist and "Autumn Leaves" with Nancy Fritz as dancer.

Following presentation of the Barbara Fatzinger Memorial Award from the class of 1937, by Jack Wallie, class president, the band will play "Finale From Symphony in F Minor, No. 4, Op. 36," by Tchaikowsky and "The New Colonial March."

Following intermission, the program will include "Begonia for Band," "The Bride of the Waves," with David Cortright as baritone soloist, "Driftwood Patterns" and selections from "My Fair Lady."

Mrs. Allen Sterner, president of East Stroudsburg Band Mothers, will present the organization's scholarship award, followed by "The Peck-Horn's Revenge," with Lee Pollan as narrator and "Theme for Tomorrow."

The program will close with "Flight of the Bumble Bee," with Thomas Seese, Nancy Fritz, Terry Lipe, Tim Cortright, Lee Pollan, Alana Sterner, Connie Burrus, Regina Kimbal, Elaine Kauffman and Susan Miller as clarinet soloist, and "March Onward Upward" by Edwin Franko Goldman.

Prisoners Returned To 'New' Jail

TEN prisoners, held in Northampton County Jail at Easton while Monroe County Jail was renovated, were returned here yesterday.

They included: James Gilroy, 26, of 37 Sterling St., Pittston, fornication and bastardy; George M. Sterba, 31, Knapp Rd., Clarks Summit, operating a vehicle without an operator's license or the owner's consent; Clarence W. Nolan, 36, of 188 Lenox Ave., East Stroudsburg, parole violation.

20,000 Get Vaccine In Wayne-Pike

AN ESTIMATED 20,000 persons yesterday received their initial dose of Sabin oral polio vaccine as the Wayne-Pike Medical Association began its Sabin Oral Sunday campaign.

George Casparian, program coordinator, said actual doses given in the two counties yesterday totaled 19,708. He continued that the total figure does not include figures from the Matamoras station, one of four stations in Pike County.

Casparian also announced that a make-up session for those who were unable to be present yesterday will be conducted Thursday from 6 to 9 p.m. in Honesdale Junior-Senior High School.

Figures from various stations where Sabin vaccine was given are:

Wayne County — Grace Episcopal Church, Honesdale, 3,679; Honesdale Junior-Senior High School, 2,800; Lake Ariel High School, 1,664; Newfoundland, 1,075; Pleasant Mount, 1,297; Lakeview, 924; Hawley, 1,891; Damascus, 1,172; Waymart, 1,623, and Beachlake, 1,333.

Pike County — Greeley, 786; Milford, 1,100; Bushkill, 374 and no report from Matamoras.

The second dose of the vaccine will be administered May 26, and the final dose on Oct. 20.

President Not Alone

A short time ago, in a message to Congress, President Kennedy recommended the removal of minimum rate regulations from the transportation of agricultural and bulk commodities. This would make possible the reduction of rates, to the advantage of producers, shippers and consumers.

The President is not alone. Now 12 national farm and other shipper organizations, representing a major portion of the nation's farmers, fishermen and allied distribution industries, have joined in support of this proposal.

They include such groups as the Farm Bureau Federation, the Farmers Union, the Grange, the Council of Farmer Cooperatives, the Vegetable Growers Association, and so on down the impressive list. This is an example of unusual and perhaps unprecedented cooperation on a legislative matter.

These organizations also had something else of importance to say. The President's message contained an alternative proposal, whereby regulation would be applied to all surface carriers in the areas presently exempt. United opposition was voiced to this.

The policy of all the groups is "...that less regulation of railroads and not more regulation of motor and water carriers... will promote a stronger national transportation system and be in the best interest of shippers and the public generally."

What it all adds up to is the fact that hard experience has demonstrated that the products of our farms and fishing grounds cannot be distributed to the consumers in the cities, towns, and rural areas throughout the country economically and efficiently under a system of federal "minimum" rate regulation. The solution is simple—drop the "minimum" regulation.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Future Americans

How Long is 37 years?

It's as long or as short as the context in which that length of time is being discussed.

And when it comes to planning for a progressive, orderly America of 350 million people—about twice today's population—37 years is an alarmingly short time.

By the year 2000, not only will there be two Americans for every one alive today, but three times as many houses, four times as many cars and a Federal Government spending five times as much as the current Administration wants to spend in 1963. These projections were presented the other day in a report from Resources for the Future, Inc., a private research organization that has spent the last five years trying to figure out what the American economy will be like by the turn of the century.

Will there be sufficient resources for the future?

The report was guardedly hopeful on this point. There will be food, energy sources, water, land, minerals and other materials for the larger population, and this population will benefit from an economy four times as productive as today's economy, if—if—a number of things take place:

A continually improving technology keeps pace with the need to get more use out of given amounts of raw materials and in substituting plentiful ones for scarce ones.

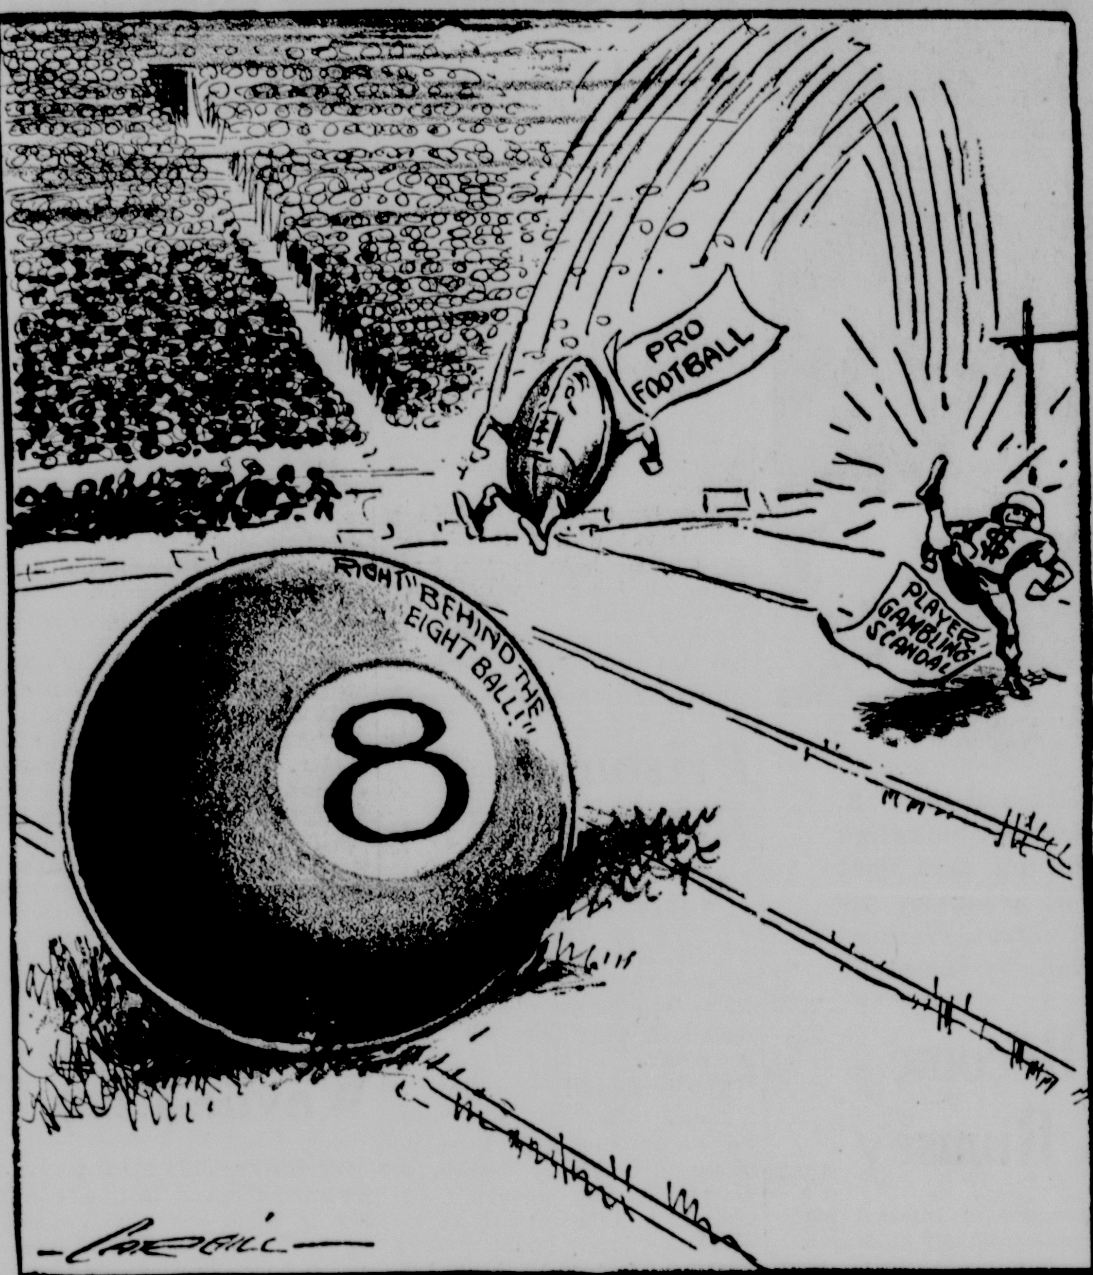

Expansion of international trade and monetary arrangements enlarges the opportunities for this country to sell its products abroad and to buy needed raw materials.

Conservation principles, aimed at satisfying great demands for land and clean water, are applied.

Even if these steps are taken, a couple of sobering qualifications must be tied to hopes for a better America in the year 2000. First, a better America depends not only on the quantity of resources and material goods available but the quality of the way of life. What of the quality of education and culture and recreation, and what of individual freedoms in an incredibly more complex, demanding society? These are questions the research agency did not, and probably could not, answer. Second, it's none too early to be thinking beyond the year 2000.

What we do for an America of 37 years from now will determine to a large degree how well Americans then will be able to plan and provide for their children and grandchildren 20, 30 and 50 years into the next century.

New Place Kick Star

By Mason Denison
First In A Series

Harrisburg — The Scranton Administration at this point is on dead center in the time-worn groove of complacent fiddling, lost motion and inactivity—at least in the field of doing something to help beef up Pennsylvania's much-campaigned-over sagging economy.

For both pocket-squeezed Pennsylvania industry and bank accountless Keystone State unemployed, the Scranton campaign of last fall was one of desperate hope and confidence—hope and confidence built on compounded promises of whipping Pennsylvania out of its economic morass.

"Top priority" was the label slapped on the issue by the then candidate; in fact after he won the gubernatorial nod in November he couldn't wait to get out of bed the next morning to start work on a solution!

He would enlist the aid of a "committee" (of gasp) 100,000 Pennsylvanians to work out the answer, to work with the problem; to try to induce more industry to settle in Pennsylvania, to cut down the Keystone State's unemployment.

In the near six months inter-

The Pennsylvania Story

Economic Stagnation

im, what has happened on this the most critical issue to Pennsylvania?

Mr. Scranton named a score or so of "key" leaders to head the committee of 100,000—and that's where it has rested, to all intents and purposes.

But what about this (glorious) committee; what would it do? Fundamentally it would (or will, if it ever gets going) try to find some way of beefing up Pennsylvania's plopping industrial complex.

The pattern is identical to that of the past decade—which produced much political hogwash, a few thousand jobs, but which leaves the core of the problem unsolved: reduction to a fraction the number of jobless Pennsylvanians and give the Keystone State a rosy and healthy industrial climate!

The pattern is one of doing what everyone else—what other states—are doing: trot the same old groove (now worn several feet trying to tickle industries away from other states to Pennsylvania—while these states are doing the same to Pennsylvania!

It's a happy merry-go-round, by now a somewhat inane merry-go-round, where Pennsylvania in its "search" keeps its eyes lowered to the ground, not looking beyond the time-worn horizons.

Initiative, perspective, drive, imagination and hard-hitting concentration on a new approach are missing: it's the old pattern, the old style—with little new added.

The big hotly potential market today is abroad—not here in the foot-worn four-foot-deep paths of the domestic merry-go-round.

What is up-to-the-hips Pennsylvania doing about it? Oh, nothing (the foreign market hasn't been time-worn and beaten into pulp enough as yet!).

Instead, what does Pennsylvania do? It sends off to Washington a defeated political candidate to serve as liaison (or something) between the federal government (or something) and the Keystone State on defense contracts (or something), at a taxpayer cost of (something) around $80,000.

What good does this "Washington office" do? "Oh they're working on things all the time," front office aides here on Capitol Hill will tell you...

So are most of the other major industrial states.

The point we're making is no different than it was before; the Scranton Administration is still fiddling as administrations fiddled before; the old mill is still turning; the old rut is getting deeper and deeper—Pennsylvania still has its healthy batch (386,000) of jobless workers, and its same sagging economy!

The Scranton Administration unquestionably is missing its best bet by not developing the foreign market potential—not from the standpoint of bringing new plants or industry to Pennsylvania but from the simple economic standpoint of fuller utilization (and resultant expansion) of industries Pennsylvania already has, which in turn would mean more people to do the work!

(Tomorrow: The foreign market and what it could mean to Pennsylvania.)

Ray Silvers, the Stroud Twp. fireman who gave up a soft ball when he found out managing was tougher than fighting fires, is pushing these days the organization's annual dance and stage show.

The event, marking another year in Stroud's non-profit volunteer service to the community, will be held Saturday night at Elks Lodge, East Stroudsburg.

Silvers and his fellow Smokey Stovers hope that everyone will buy a duet to the affair, pointing out this is the only way the group survives from year to year.

Stroud's fire-fighting unit is a definite asset to their area. We imagine, too, that many people have already given thanks for their firemen's unselfish duty over a 365-day period annually.

Even if you can't make the social get-together, it would be a good investment to purchase a duet for this most worthy cause.

The Allen-Scott Report

Cautious Bias

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington, April 23: President Kennedy is taking in the stormy Sino-Soviet snarling—on the Kremlin's side.

U. S. diplomats are being directed by the White House to privately and publicly favor Russia unless doing that should raise the possibility of embarrassing Premier Khrushchev.

In this event, they are cautioned "not to so openly favor Khrushchev's point of view as to make it difficult for him to justify it within the Communist camp."

These extraordinary instructions highlight a "grand design" policy paper the President has directed McGeorge Bundy, his special foreign policy adviser, to distribute to U. S. ambassadors in strategic capitals throughout the world. This select list includes Ambassador Foy Kohler in Moscow.

Titled "Relations with Communist Regimes," this top-level policy paper, in a section labeled "U. S. Exploitation of the Sino-Soviet Split," gives these diplomats the following significant directions:

"Although there is little the U. S. can do to promote that split, we should at least avoid measures that might have the effect of healing it. We should, thus, not so openly favor Khrushchev's point of view as to make it difficult for him to justify it within the Communist camp. We should—in the context of the Sino-Soviet dispute as well as for larger reasons—be prepared to encourage Khrushchev's preference for negotiations and peaceful settlement..."

"And we should make clear, by deeds as well as words, that any contrary Chinese Communist view is likely to prove unwelcome; that the character of the Sino-Soviet debate over 'Wars of National Liberation' makes it critically important that South Vietnam maintain its independence and that the present North Vietnam offensive be frustrated."

Making A Judgment — The White House policy paper warns the ambassadors to avoid becoming so preoccupied with the Sino-Soviet split as to lose sight of the main U. S. objectives.

"We should not become so fascinated with the Sino-Soviet split," states the document, "as to lose sight of the larger prospect that both states, whether closely knit or not, will continue to wax in strength, and that both will be basically hostile to us though perhaps in different degrees and in different ways."

The paper enunciates two courses of action, as follows:

"The only effective means of offsetting this prospect will be a continuing build-up of free world strength and cohesion through our own and allied military policies, combined with efforts to isolate and consolidate such particular areas of overlapping interest with Communist states and the free community as may emerge."

The policy document also foresees the strong likelihood that despite the Sino-Soviet dispute, the Chinese Reds will continue to grow in power and "in the relatively near future acquire a nuclear capability."

"Although the USSR might be driven by the split to adopt a somewhat intransigent foreign policy," the paper continues, "it is likely that it will at least experiment with a more accommodating policy toward the West, thereby opening up new opportunities for Western initiatives."

The paper concludes hopefully, "A Sino-Soviet split, despite the possibilities of competition in aggressiveness as between Moscow and Peking—is definitely in the U. S. interest, and in the interest of the free community."

U. S. diplomats are also told that administration policy toward the Nationalist and Communist Chinese governments is now under top-level review.

Until this study is completed, the paper reveals, the basic policy is "to leave ajar possibilities for expanding commercial, cultural and other contacts with Communist China... if the regime is prepared to modify its present aggressive policies."

Fifties Weren't Futile

My old Lucepaper colleague, Emmett John Hughes, who served President Eisenhower in the White House and came out beavelling the fact that he wasn't given the opportunity to become the Arthur Schlesinger Jr. of his day, has recently sounded off on the "futility" of the Nineteen Fifties.

If you missed the point in some of his contentious magazine articles, you can get it in his controversial "I - was - there - but - ignored" book called "The Ordeal of Power."

One can appreciate Mr. Hughes' impatience with a boss who liked to have every recommendation placed on a single sheet of paper (how galling to a writer who likes to expand his thoughts); but this business of down-grading the decade of the Fifties makes no sense.

The glory of Ike as President was that he permitted government for eight wonderful years to get off the backs of people. He might have done better about foreign policy, though it was no small achievement to keep Red Chinese from grabbing Quemoy and Matsu as the island-stepping stones to Formosa, and he might have spent considerable less money on aimless domestic and foreign aid projects.

But, generally speaking, Ike had the common sense to realize that people are better off if they aren't tied to the apron strings of government.

Having come of age in that other much-maligned era which has gone down in history as the Roaring Twenties, when Coolidge made the White House a peaceful dormitory, I thoroughly enjoyed much of Ike's decade.

In the Twenties we lived through a little renaissance; the books were good, the popular music was good, the trips to Europe which we could somehow manage on skimpy pay checks were fun.

True enough, the moral tone of much that went on in the Twenties was not particularly elevated, but that was due to Prohibition, which was a legacy of a previous busybody era when government thought it might properly aim to tell a man what he might and might not put in his stomach.

The economic crash that put an end to our pleasure was also a delayed result of the benightedness of governments, for hadn't they crowned a disastrous war in 1919 with a peace that would have caused Metetrnich or Bismarck or any other Nineteenth Century statesman to blanch with horror?

I liked Ike's Fifties because they seemed a bit like a reprise of the Twenties. Businessmen caused to be shellshocked, and as they emerged from the storm cellars they gave us a lot of good things, from good paper back books to stereophonic sound. There were, as one observer put it, the "seven fat years," with a rising standard of living that had the economists rapturous over their new totem, the Gross National Product, or GNP. In the Fifties people got out of their seats in the bleachers and started to have fun on their own two feet.

New marinas dotted the rivers, lakes and bays as the population went boat-crazy; husbands and wives took to bowling at tenthirty at night in order to get pleasantly tired for a restful night's sleep; the skiers turned our mountain regions into happy Tyrols which needed only a few yodelers to challenge Europe, for the real McCoy in gemutlichkeit.

This was the lighter side of the Fifties. On the serious side, Ike's decade witnessed a conservative revival that restored a healthy tension to our intellectual life.

The liberalism that had been vibrantly challenging in the Thirties had grown calcified; zealous debate had gone out of fashion; and we had grown increasingly intolerant of any dissent from the shibboleths of the Welfare State.

Along with the intolerance went a disgraced hypocrisy that gave the merest lip service to the virtues of free speech. In Ike's decade this hypocrisy was unmasked, though news of it has yet to reach a few of our more prominent liberal bores.

Well, the Fifties, like the Twenties, are now a nostalgic memory. But nobody is going to call them futile in my presence without getting a tart rejoinder of "twasn't so."

Commissioners Vote Down $39,510 Help To Highways

MONROE County commissioners yesterday voted against contributing $39,510 to the State Highway Department in change portions of Legislative Routes 45010 and 45051, both in the Cherry Valley area, and 45056, in the McMichael's area.

The request from the highway department did not include mileage to be changed, nor the changes themselves.

In other business Monroe County Sheriff Jacob F. Altemose told the board that the 10 prisoners housed in Northampton County Jail pending completion of renovations to the Monroe County Jail were returned to Stroudsburg Monday at 10:30 a.m.

The 10 inmates are being held for charges varying from fornication and bastardy to disorderly conduct.

The commissioners left the office at 12:30 p.m. to view the county bridges. They will make their report at the Thursday meeting.

A representative of The Daily Record entered the cell block of the Monroe County Jail and asked the inmates for comments about the recently renovated jail.

General comments were that the cell block looked nicer since it was remodeled and painted; the beds were nicer and the mattresses bigger and softer.

Another pointed out that there was now hot and cold running water in the cell block and was available to the inmates to do their wash.

Only one discouraging remark was heard and steps were immediately taken to correct the situation. The remark was that it was cold in the cell block.

Chester Ejdys, warden, told the newspaper representative that the windows in the cell block had been opened earlier to allow fresh air to come in. He then made his rounds and closed the windows.

Three Salesmen Are Jailed

BEDFORD, Pa. (AP) — Three out-of-state magazine salesmen were ordered Monday to pay the medical expenses of a Bedford County man they were accused of assaulting last Friday.

Justice of the Peace H. Cyril Bingham also ordered Dallas P. Thompson, 19, of Lenoir City, Tenn.; Tom J. Slocum, 19, of Marshalltown, Iowa; and Bill F. Cravey, 29, of Columbus, Ohio, to leave Bedford County.

Police said the three men beat up Milton Schrock, 58, of Manns Choice R.D. 1 last Friday at Schrock's home. He suffered a broken nose and multiple face cuts.

Police said the three men went to the Schrock residence after a woman companion reported Schrock had made improper advances while she was trying to sell him a magazine subscription.

The three were committed to Bedford County Jail pending financial settlement.

1964 Wheat Allotments Being Mailed

NOTICES of 1964-crop wheat acreage allotments are being mailed to all wheat farm operators, on April 22, 1963, Donald Reish, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Monroe County Committee, has announced.

For most wheat farms, the chairman explained, the allotment represents the farm's share of the 1964 national wheat allotment of 49.5 million acres. For small farms, however—those with wheat allotments of less than 15 acres, the allotment represents the larger of (a) the farm's allotment based on the national allotment, or (b) 80 per cent of the farm's average 1959-61 wheat acreage, but not more than 15 acres.

Reish pointed out that all the wheat produced on a participating farm's wheat allotment acreage may be marketed free of penalty if marketing quotas are made effective for the 1964 wheat crop. All wheat from a farm which had no wheat history in 3 base years 1959-61, however, would be subject to a marketing quota penalty.

The question of whether to use marketing quotas for the 1964 wheat crop will be decided by wheat growers in a referendum on May 21. "Small farm" operators will be eligible to cast ballots provided they register by May 13—their intention to participate in the 1964 program as an allotment grower.

They will do this by signing in the space provided on the back of the regular allotment notice, MQ-24, and filing the notice at the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service county office before the deadline, Reish said.

Reds Seize Many Fishermen

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese fishermen ran into rough seas last year.

The Maritime Safety Agency said 104 boats carrying 1,016 crewmen were seized on charges of violating territorial waters off the Soviet Union, North and South Korea, Indonesia, the Philippines, Spain and Ecuador.

Elderly Woman Dies

READING, Pa., (AP)—Mrs. Sara Reiter, who at 107 was believed to be Berks County's oldest resident, died Saturday in the home of a daughter, Mrs. Edna Fink of nearby Virginsville, Mrs. Reiter, a native of Berks County, outlived her husband and two sons. Besides her daughter, she is survived by four grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren and 14 great-great grandchildren.

Now...heat your home ELECTRICALLY

...the cost is Guaranteed!

Now...you can stop playing guessing games with your home heating costs! When you choose dependable, modern Electric Heat, you'll get an accurate estimate of your annual heating cost. And that estimate will be backed up with a written guarantee!

Look for this emblem!

It's the sign of a Recommended Reddy Kilowatt Electric Home Heating Dealer. He's the man who can give you a guaranteed estimate of the cost of heating your home electrically. MILLIONS of Americans will be camping out this summer—on weekends, during vacations and, in some cases, for months at a time. During those periods, most of the campers will be using canvas tents for their homes. And, like regular houses, these tents must be properly maintained if they are to give maximum service.

A constant enemy of canvas is mildew. To prevent it, remember these tips: never roll up a tent when wet. Never roll up the stakes and the pole with the tent. And never store the tent in a damp place.

During a windstorm, tighten all ropes, secure the walls to the pins and close door flaps. If the tent has a roll-up wall, lace it at the corners.

Emergency repairs can be made with patching cement and small patches. Very small tears can be temporarily mended with adhesive tape. Permanent repairs can be made later with a sewing machine that can handle canvas.

In driving tent stakes, make them secure but not too deep or too tight. When the stakes are too firmly imbedded, the canvas may shrink when wet—causing it to tear at the seams or pull out of shape. The stakes should be driven into the ground so that they slope a bit away from the tent.

Should you have an old tent which has lost its water-resistance, you can buy and put on a water-resistant compound. It can be applied by brush or spray . . . but be sure to follow the instructions about safety, because many of these preparations are inflammable. Also, and this is important, do not think that the more compound you put on, the better the result will be. When a tent has an extra-heavy layer of water-resistant compound on it, an unhealthy situation has been created. During the night, the sleepers' breath condenses on the canvas and then runs down like rain.

Most states can give you all the information you want about camping facilities in your area. And the United States government puts out a map which shows the location of all state and federal campsites.

Hamill's Sponsor Shelters

HAMILL'S Paint Center in conjunction with Felton-Sibley Paints has sponsored a school bus safety shelter on Rt. 191 North of Stroudsburg.

The shelter is cost-free to the community with upkeep provided by sponsors and the manufacturer. Location of school shelters in this area is an extension of a nationwide safety campaign to remove school children from dangerous, heavily travelled highways and to provide them safe accommodations during storms. The prefabricated structures are made entirely of steel.

To insure visibility they are finished in white baked enamel and are topped with a reflecting-type pennant cautioning motorists of the presence of children. The buildings will accommodate 14 youngsters and are fully enclosed on three sides.

Three thousand pounds of reinforced concrete is used to anchor the structure to the ground. The firm insures children using the shelters and landowners on whose ground they are located for $1,000,000.

PRE-SEASON sale on summer furniture, bedroom suits, living room suites and in fact the entire stock of Stroudsburg Bedding, 437 Main St., Stroudsburg, has been greatly reduced for this occasion.

A special bonus for those buying bedroom suites is a mattress and box springs absolutely free with the compliments of Stroudsburg Bedding.

NAMES' THE SAME

THE names given to paint colors are not scientific ones; they have been chosen by the various paint companies for their sales appeal. Thus one company's "chinese red" may not be identical to another paint with the same name made by another firm. The National Paint, Varnish & Lacquer Association says that when you are trying to duplicate a paint color you have previously used or one which you have seen at a friend's home, stick to the same brand if you want an exact reproduction.

CANADA'S outstanding lakes are the Great Lakes, though only part of them is in Canadian territory. Other large lakes, lying entirely in Canada, include Great Bear (12,000 square miles), Great Slave (11,170 square miles), Winnipeg and Athabasca.

The sale started Friday, April 19, and will continue to Saturday, April 27.

Some special buys of note are aluminum out door furniture two folding chairs and one chaise longue for only $12.95 for all three pieces.

Redwood picnic tables and benches ranging from four feet, five feet and six feet (the table can be folded to a bench when not in use as a table. These table-bench combination start from $12.95 for the four foot outfit.

Two piece livingroom suites with nylon fabric upholstery and foam cushions start at the low, low price of $120. . . then there are occasional chairs, tables, lamps, all reduced for this sale.

All merchandise on sale is from their regular stock and reduced. No special purchases have been made for this occasion.

Stroudsburg Bedding has long been known for their high quality line in which they specialize in furnishing Hotels and Motels throughout the area from A to Z.

When buying mattresses and box springs, you can depend on their quality . . . they manufacture these in their own factory on Veterans Place, formerly Storm Street) and are produced from the finest quality materials.

You can always get a good deal on quality merchandise at Stroudsburg Bedding.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY RECORD

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

I always defend my addiction to books — any book — and crossword puzzles by saying that I never know when some odd bit of information will come in handy, but I seldom have a chance to prove it by citing examples.

So quick, I'll point out that my bed-time reading of Cleveland Amory's "Who Killed Society" paid off yesterday when I got the picture and release from the New York City Cancer Committee.

I'm glad the picture accompanied the release, because recognizing Peg Cleveland with the Commodore, I didn't need Mr. Amory to tell me who she is. She and Clem used to live at Buck Hill but now they live opposite Hartman's Cave Farm overlooking Cherry Valley and she plays good golf, good bridge and they are both good company at many a local party.

But it was sort of fun to see her name among all the others which I recognized because Mr. Amory has been talking and quoting many of them in his book on high society: names like Mrs. Clifford Brokaw, Mrs. William Russell Grace, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Patterson, and Countess D'Escaayrac and of course, Mrs. Edward Hutton.

So, sort of basking in reflected glory, I called Peg to get the story, and it certainly has been an exciting one for her. And I was excited to learn that she really had sold tickets to people in the county who will have a couple of gala tables at the Captain's Gala.

Anyway we've got quite an assortment of ambassadors at all sorts of affairs: Mrs. Pennsylvania at the Mrs. Amory contest; Mrs. Krebs going to Washington for the Employ the Handicapped conference; Mrs. Hoffman to join her husband in Germany, and the Stroud Union Chorus singing today at Cheston and Hackettstown.

And I just sit here, waiting for everybody to come back and tell me about it all.

Halls Honored On Silver Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley J. Hall of 43 Stemple St., East Stroudsburg, were surprised recently at a party honoring them on their 25th wedding anniversary. The party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart R. Hall of 606 Chestnut St., East Stroudsburg.

Twenty-seven members of the family attended, and presented them with gifts including a silver dollar money tree.

The Halls were married Jan. 29, 1938 at St. Thomas Macada Church Bethlehem. They are the parents of two daughters, Rita Louise and Karen Sue.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. George Lalo, Allentown; Mrs. Mary Steidinger and son, Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hall and children, Judith, Timmy, Steven and Michael of Bethlehem; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Lutz, Allentown; Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Reese and children, Wesley, Francis and Dolores of Wind Gap; and the hosts Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Hall and children, Chip, Debra, Teddy and Becky.

Eight-Year-Olds Enjoy Party In The Wind

Delaware Water Gap — The strong wind blowing Saturday lent excitement to the games at the lawn party celebrating the 8th birthday of Gwendolyn Kaiser with 15 guests taking part.

They hunted lollipops with nickels fastened to some of the finds. Ice cream, birthday cake and fruit punch were served and balloons and other favors were presented to the guests.

Children were Merri and Billy Fodin, Alyse Farrell, Donna, Elsa and Lori Del Campo, Hattie Eichhoff, June and Jean Hennes, Jill Court, Valerie Bradley, Rebecca and Vanessa Kaiser, Paula Weary, of Stroudsburg, and Gwendolyn's sister, Roxanne Kaiser.

Adult guests were Mrs. Paul Weary, Mrs. Anthony Del Campo, Mrs. William Eichhoff, Mrs. Robert Kaiser and the guest of honor's grandmother, Mrs. Thornton Keiper.

Miss Brenda Besecker Bride Of Edmund Granville

Miss Brenda Besecker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald T. Besecker, of Stroudsburg, RD 1, was married at 11 a. m. April 6 in the Poplar Valley Methodist Church to Edmund Granville, grandson of Mrs. Clara Granville, of Tenth St., Stroudsburg.

Rev. David Fife performed the ceremony. Each pew was decorated with nosegays of lilies of the valley and white satin ribbon.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballroom length gown of embroidered organza fashioned with a circlet neckline, basque bodice and three-quarter length sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil of imported silk illusion fell from a pearl coronet, and she carried white roses on a white Bible.

Joan Gussett was her maid of honor. She wore a yellow dress and carried a bouquet of yellow and white roses.

William Gussett was best man. The bride's mother wore a navy dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's grandmother also wore a navy blue dress and had a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 70 guests was held at the church social hall.

For traveling, the bride wore a green linen suit. After a honeymoon in Washington, D. C., they are now at home on Oakwood Ave., Stroudsburg.

The bride, a graduate of Stroud Union High School, is employed at Woolworth's in Stroudsburg. Mr. Granville attended East Stroudsburg High School and served four years in the U. S. Navy. He is employed at Ehrlich's Market, East Stroudsburg.

Community Examines Itself From Viewpoint Of Young

In the final meeting of the school year the East Stroudsburg Secondary Parent-Teachers Assn. studied the question, "Is our community good for our young people?" in a program introduced by Mrs. Russell Scott with James Reed of the psychology department at the college as moderator.

Outlining some of the problems together with suggested solutions were representatives of the school, church and community.

Speaking for the school, Carl Secor, supervising principal, spoke of the confusion among young people because of changes taking place. The demands of science and emphasis on physical fitness are but two of the increased pressures in the schools, together with the fact that some school buses travel as much as 25 miles one way.

The educational system must be revamped to get more done, he suggested.

No "Common" Labor

Today there is no such thing as common labor, he added, pointing to the fact that in Industrial Arts education there is training in technical skills, drafting, electrical engineering and even welding.

"Education is something you have to work for, and once achieved cannot be taken from you," he said, deploring the fact that 50 per cent of the young people do not go to college or even take advanced high school courses.

Rev. John Thomas spoke for the churches, saying that while neither the church nor the school should by-pass its obligations, that parents cannot expect them to take over their responsibilities. Churches should work to interest children as well as adults, and have a right to set up standards for recreational activities.

Unemployed Youth

Henry McCool, juvenile probation officer, contended that there are "no problem children, but there are children with problems."

He suggested two questions: "Was the child wanted in the first place?" and "Why do they get into trouble?" At the present time the percentage of young people under the age of 30 unemployed is worse than it was during the depression, he said.

He suggested full cooperation among parents to give a sense of belonging; the schools to train for the future; the community to set a good example; the church to give a good start in life.

Dr. Reed in summarizing the discussion, suggested that students are often worse than parents think and should be listened to at times for ideas. He also suggested that parents read the White House Study of the community which can be found in the public library and which lists suggestions on how to improve the community to make young people glad and proud to be living here.

Shook President

At the business meeting which preceded the program, officers were installed by the county president, Walter Melnikoff.

Edward Shook, president; Mrs. Russell Scott, vice president; Mrs. Stanley Wisegarver, recording secretary; Mrs. Claude Heller, corresponding secretary; and David Bernbaum, treasurer. Mr. S. Charles McMahon gave the PTA prayer.

Wilson Papers Reveal Man, Wimer Says, As Local DAR Marks 43rd Anniversary

"Anyone who really wants to understand Wilson has to inspect primary sources," Dr. Kurt Wimer professor of Social Studies at East Stroudsburg State College, told the Jacob Stroud Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at their meeting yesterday at the Stroud Community House.

Dr. Wimer shared with them his experience in a year of research under a Rockefeller Grant of original papers of Woodrow Wilson as well as Manuscripts by leading figures associated with him, and personal interviews with surviving statesmen of the Wilsonian period. Dr. Wimer's research was to collect source material for a book he is writing on "Woodrow Wilson and Collective Security."

Bulking large in his research were the Papers of Woodrow Wilson deposited at the Library of Congress. Weighing about six tons, the collection includes books, articles, letters and speeches by the 28th president. In addition to his contacts with Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Dr. Wimer also described his interviews with Ambassador William Phillips, Woodrow's Under Secretary of State; Former Governor of Pennsylvania, David Lawrence; Bernard Beruch and Sen. Henry Fulton Ashurst.

From his studies, Dr. Wimer is convinced that President Wilson was ahead of his time in planning for a world of peace, justice and law.

Honor Regents

Jacob Stroud Chapter was organized 43 years ago yesterday, and its organizing regent, Mrs. Ernest H. Wyckoff, headed the list of past regents who were honored at the Regent's Tea. Each was presented with a colorful corsage and seated in places of honor.

Past regents present in addition to Mrs. Wyckoff were Mrs. Floyd Bachman, Dr. Edna Rosencrans, Mrs. Irving W. Foltz, Mrs. T. Manning Curtis and Mrs. Howard R. Flagler Jr. Mrs. Harold C. Edwards was unable to be present.

Special music included a piano duet, "Bolero," by Ravel played by Mrs. Fred Quig and Miss Susan Halstead; a piano solo, "Minuet in G" Paderewsky, Susan Halstead; and violin solo, "To a Wild Rose" and "Melody in F" by Mrs. Henry Baumann.

Announcement was made of the annual luncheon to be held May 20 at the Penn-Stroud Hotel and of a rummage sale to be held May 9 and 10 next to the Grand Theater.

Continental Congress

A report was given by the delegates who attended the annual Continental Congress in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. William E. Andrew, regent, read 12 resolutions approved by the national Continental Congress, preceded by a statement of rededication to the Constitution of the United States with the critical statement.

"Whereas we face a critical period in the history of our country because the international Marxist socialist and world government advocates would weaken and destroy this Nation through subversion of this great-est of all documents."

Among the 12 resolutions were those dealing with the heritage of prayer; disarmament and the test ban treaty; the Monroe Doctrine and hemispheric defense; national solvency; the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952; the United Nations; the Atlantic Community and Declaration of Paris; personality tests; and the Domestic peace corps.

Mrs. Robert Smith, chapter chairman of national defense, reported on the national defense talk by Sen. Towers, in which he was critical of a foreign policy which "treats our friends like naughty children and favors non-committed nations from whom we receive no respect or support;" and "the insistence that underdeveloped countries produce socialistic type governments to care for their people before we help them."

"Free enterprise worked here," he said, "and you'll agree we were at one time an underdeveloped nation."

Mrs. Paul Fellenner, vice regent reported on the opening session and read President Kennedy's letter of welcome.

Refreshments were served from a Springtime table with Mrs. Wyckoff and Mrs. Foltz pouring. The hostesses were Mrs. Harold J. Pine, Mrs. Roy M. Houser, Mrs. Robert E. Smith and Mrs. Henry G. Tucker.

CAPTAIN'S GALA III planning session on the SS Rotterdam finds Mrs. Clement Cleveland III of Cherry Valley talking with Commodore C. G. Kooyman after a committee luncheon aboard the Holland America flagship. The benefit dinner cruise is for the benefit of the American Cancer Society sponsored by the New York Committee.

Mrs. Cleveland Serving For Charity Dinner-Cruise Gala

The door-to-door porchlight campaign for the Cancer Crusade in the Poconos last night and the $100-per-person Captain's Gala aboard the flagship S. S. Rotterdam to be held at sea have two things in common:

They both involve local women, and they both are for the benefit of the American Cancer Society. But there the resemblance stops abruptly.

Trudging from door to door to collect quarters can hardly be termed glamorous by any standards, and when people forget to turn on their porchlights can be downright dangerous.

The five-hour cruise on June 5 on the Holland America flagship is the major social event of the New York City Cancer Committee's fund raising year and will have former President and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower as honorary patrons.

Mrs. Clement Cleveland III of Cherry Valley got involved in these high society doings in discharging a family duty. Her husband had been asked to present the annual award at the dinner meeting of the New York Society, named in honor of Dr. Clement Cleveland, one of the founders of the American Cancer Society. At that dinner she was asked to serve on the committee for the Captain's Gala III.

The brainchild of Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, this is the third year for the project which in its first year raised $80,000 for charity. Limited to 500 persons,

In the meantime, in addition to the dinner, which may include smoked salmon stuffed with caviar, pate, lobster terridor and filet mignon, the sail also features gambling, with the guests using scrip which can be exchanged for cars, minks, sables, diamonds or gallons of perfume, all donated for the charity affair.

Honorary guests this year will include Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson; Gov. and Mrs. Richard J. Hughes, Gov. and Mrs. Endicott Peabody, Senator and Mrs. Jacob Javits, Sen. and Mrs. Edward M. Kennedy, and Mayor and Mrs. Robert F. Wagner.

The committee reads like the New York social register, and they've all done their work so well that when Mrs. Cleveland went down to a committee luncheon on the S.S. Rotterdam last week she found that she didn't need to sell another ticket; they've all been booked and all she's got to worry about between now and June 5 is what to wear in such august company.

Sports Columnists
View NFL Action

Commissioner Pete Rozelle's strong crackdown on gambling influences in the National Football League drew an overwhelming vote of approval from the nation's sports columnists, but a few felt the pro football boss acted too severely.

One of these was Gene Ward of the New York Daily News, who said:

"Sure, Horning was stupid. Sure, he should have known better. But he committed a misdemeanor, not a felony, and his bad luck was to wind up before a hanging judge."

Paul Hornung, star halfback of the champion Green Bay Packers, and Alex Karras, defensive tackle of the Detroit Lions, were slapped with indefinite suspensions for making wagers on games. Five other Lion players and the Detroit club drew fines.

"Rozelle's ruling would be considered overly harsh in a court of law," said Ray Haywood of the Oakland, Calif. Tribune. "Frankly if I were in charge of one of those wild animal acts known as a pro football team, I would demand that both offensive and defensive units, and everyone else on my payroll, bet on themselves." He added, however, that the punitive action should do much to establish Rozelle as the NFL commissioner "or executioner."

Rozelle, the boy commissioner, came out of the staggering episode smelling like roses, however, with most of the men who report on the games.

"There can be no sympathy for the National Football League's penalized players," said Roy Edwards of the Dallas Morning News. "Wherever there is gambling, from poker to golf to football, there also is the ever present specter of the fix."

Sandy Grady of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin said the commissioner had no other choice. "He is not a court judge to decide on the moral behavior of Karras and Horning," Grady said. "He is the boss of a multimillion dollar commercial empire—and the product was in great danger of being tarnished."

"By his actions, Rozelle struck an unmistakable blow for the integrity of the NFL and sports in general," wrote Clark Nealon of the Houston Post. Dick Peebles of the Houston Chronicle said Rozelle acted wisely and "he'll be regarded here with greater respect."

Bob Broeg of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch said, "Let's not brand Horning or Karras as criminals; but because they broke a league rule, violated a clause in their contract and flouted authority, they deserved the severe punishment handed down by Commissioner Pete Rozelle."

"I had to be done," added Robert L. Barnes of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. "Pete Rozelle's stature as commissioner grew tremendously with this firm action."

John Carmichael of the Chicago Daily News sympathized with the suspended players but refused to excuse them. "How silly can any professional competitor be when he knowingly violates a contract that prohibits such things?" Carmichael asked.

Bob Meisel of the Baltimore Sun wrote: "When Rozelle made his decision, he made a good one. He was severe enough to protect the image of the sport yet his actions are completely covered by the constitution and by-laws of the National Football League."

From Detroit, the city hardest hit by Rozelle's action, Lyall Smith of the Free Press wrote: "There is a rumbling ground swell of heated opinion around our town that the big boss made whipping boys of the Detroit Lions. While his explanation won't satisfy the critics, it still makes sense."

Raymond Johnson of the Nashville Tennessean said, "Other sports need more men like Pete Rozelle" and Fred Russell of the Nashville Banner wrote: "Surely no one will confuse any of these penalties with changes of point-shaving or throwing games. To me, there's all the difference in the world between these contemptible, corrupt acts and one of betting on his own team."

Dean Eagle of the Louisville Times praised Horning for admitting his mistake. "He had no alibi. This attitude is admirable," Eagle said. Larry Boeck of the Louisville Courier-Journal said: "Paul Hornung is carrying the suspension the way he did a football—he isn't ducking."

Football School Set For June

HIGH school football players will get a chance to learn from two of pro football's best performers this June when Pocono Crest, a 2,000-acre summer resort near Stroudsburg, conducts its first annual football school.

The Crest has secured the services of Green Bay Packer world champion stars Fred (Fuzzy) Thurston, one of the best pulling guards in pro football, and Ray Nitschke, an all-pro champion and MVP in the 1962 championship playoff game with New York.

The school will run five days, June 23-28, and will conclude Friday evening with a banquet featuring Thurston as speaker.

The school for individuals will stress fundamentals, individual skills and position play, conditioning and isometric work, and improvement drills.

Lectures and group work will cover offense and defense theory, situation study and pre-game preparations, scouting, plus question and answer periods.

Fabel's Dairy, on a fine team effort, blanked Stroudsburg Furnace Co. 40. Merlin Trub tabbed a 554 for the Dairy and Frank Laise a 216-581 to lead the scoring. Star Furniture won a 3 to 1 decision from Pocono Pump Co. on the strength of Martin Setzer's 231-550. Pete Tyreman was high for the Pump Co. with his 546 set.

Froehling Bows In Tennis

U.S. Stunned Again In Pan-Am Games

By KEN DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer
SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — The powerful U.S. team suffered another stunning setback Monday when its top tennis hope, Frank Froehling, bowed to an obscure Mexican in the first round of the Pan-American Games tournament.

The baseball team, clobbered 13-1 by Cuba Sunday, bounded back with a 5-3 victory over Mexico, and a Yankee cyclist, Jack Rossi, gained the semifinals but nothing could assuage the disappointment over Froehling's setback.

The 6-foot-4 collegian from San Antonio, Tex., No. 2-ranked in the United States and a strong Davis Cup prospect, fell before unknown Juan Arendondo in straight sets 6-3, 8-6, 6-2.

Heavy Favorite
Froehling had been made the heavy advance favorite for the men's championship, although seeded second behind Mexico's aging Mario Llamas.

His teammate, Allen Fox, of Los Angeles, kept U.S. hopes alive with a first round victory over Vincente Zarazua of Mexico 6-4, 6-4, 6-0.

The baseball team, which put up a sad show against the Cubans, looked much better in the game with Mexico.

Bobby Jenkins, a fireball pitcher from Springfield, Mo., limited the Mexicans to six hits while the U.S. boys hammered out nine hits against three Mexican pitchers.

Jenkins' battery mate, Charlie Roys of Springfield, Mass., led the batting attack. He knocked in two of the runs with a double and a single. The Yanks collected three runs in the second and two in the sixth on the hitting of second baseman Dick Mooney of Weiser, Idaho, and shortstop Al DiJardin of Forest Hills, N.Y.

Still Alive

The victory kept the U.S. baseball team alive in the round robin tournament and made possible a second meeting between the United States and Cuba May 3. Froehling, seeded second in the tennis tournament, appeared lethargic after his long plane ride from San Antonio, where he attends Trinity University.

However, the lanky American had no apologies.

"I wasn't tired," he said afterward. "I met an opponent who came to play, and I couldn't get my game going."

The soft red clay court seemed to take some of the sting out of Froehling's big service, rated one of the hardest in tennis, and his powerful ground game.

Gym Drills At S-burg Friday

A GIRL'S gym demonstration will be held Friday at Stroud Union High School at 8 p.m.

Listed among the features are weird wumpy wumpuses dances, Indian clays swinging to the tune of Alley Cat, silver wands moving quickly and precisely, along with 12 boys in the Sailor's Hornpipe dance.

There also will be calisthenic drills and other activities by the girls and boys of the physical education classes.

Special numbers will be done by the modern dance club, gym team and tumbling club.

Sports Group Sets Meeting

The Pocono Mountain Sportsmen's Association will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Keubler's Mr. Hotel, Tobyhanna.

Movies will be shown during the meeting. Refreshments will be served after the session.

So. Wayne Has Few Veterans

NEWFOUNDLAND — Southern Wayne's Stags, with only four of last season's baseball players returning this year, have a field of 13 hopefuls this year under the tutelage of Coach Henry Arneberg.

Larry Keltner, Bob Duty, Barry Kistler and Joe Olsommer are returning squad members. Aspiring to a spot on the team which is an entrant in the new Wayne High School League this year are Lynn Besecker, David Carr, Arnold Gussen, Robert Olsson, Terry Staph, Robert Gifford, Robert Grimm, Vincent Caggiano, Terry Baughan, Dale Kipp, Michael Smith, Stanley Bartleson and Michael Newcomer.

All games will start this year at 4 p.m., a change from last year's Wayne League schedule.

The Stags open on April 30, hosting Damascus, and play next on May 2, hosting Lake Ariel. On May 6, Honesdale's Hornets come to Newfoundland. The Stags take to the road for their last three games, traveling to Delaware Valley on May 9; to Waymart on May 13; and to Wallenpaupack on May 20.

Yanks Bomb Army, 15-2; Berra Hurt

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—The New York Yankees bombed Army 15-2 Monday in their annual exhibition baseball game at the U.S. Military Academy as injured slugger Mickey Mantle made a surprise appearance at bat for the world champions.

Mantle, sidelined for the past nine days with a torn stomach muscle and not expected to resume regular play until this weekend, took a turn at the plate in the first inning and popped up. The workout may have been an expensive one for the Yankees. Player-coach Yogi Berra was hit on the right instep by a ball batted by Elston Howard in pre-game practice and had to retire to the dugout, where ice packs were applied.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Tuesday, April 23, 1963

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Take a few minutes to analyze situations, probabilities, possibilities. This will save much time later. An excellent day for making revisions, improvements in general.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — You, too, should give special consideration to obligation and planned programs to give you a better picture of what is RE-REQUIRED versus what you had in mind. Do not be dismayed if alterations become necessary.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — "All things are difficult before they are easy" is a maxim which may fit this day. Yet you will have some very good periods in which to profit by your wit, ambition and adaptability. Try a new tack.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Mild planetary influences will make this a more or less average day. But you can improve it considerably with a little extra effort and nerve. Keep trying.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — When you really know the answers, speak up, naturally. Don't be shy and with consideration for all concerned. When not sure, ask for more time to investigate. Care in ticklish spots.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Try to find a new way in which to handle boring jobs. It will relieve monotony. Direct all efforts thoughtfully. Don't be too over-demanding about details; show your artistic side.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Avoid a present tendency toward exaggeration and over-dramatization of simple events. Some advance indication indicated through earnest, realistic and knowing endeavor.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — A fine period for fine work and a fine attitude. Make no excuses, but swing into action — and accomplish. Don't overtax yourself, however.

November 24 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — The smallest favors could bring the finest returns now, so do not miss up any opportunity to perform a friendly act. Aim for accuracy WITH amiability.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Some persons may be overly emotional now, so deal with tact — and a smile. A favorable time for taking action on postponed matters, also for study and investigation.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — A good day for hurdling obstacles, which have been troubling you in the past; for skirting impasses and embarrassing situations. A good friend may help you.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — A day for super thinking and acting. Let your innate intuition and landable ambition guide you in all things. Make the most of your many fine talents.

YOU BORN TODAY are a bundle of good wishes, good will, and "let's-get-going" ambition. Fair-weather love activity, friendships and learning; usually acquire higher education and use their creative ability right through "old age."

You must by this same token, be careful not to overtax your wit and during periods of critical decision, you would do well to repair to quiet contemplation to make sure you are on the right road and that you have considered all facts. Make the best use of your unusual energy and fine intellect and you should be most successful.

Wm. Shakespeare, poet, playwright, J.B. Buchanan, 15th U.S.A. Pres.; Jos. M. W. Turner, painter.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 4 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked numbers give you.
